Soviet High Court Softens Death Sentence For Jews

Trial Gives Kremlin Black Eye

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Many times in the past the Kremlin, by its actions, has painfully damaged its friends abroad. It has done so again in the Leningrad hijacking affair.

Big powers, captives of enormous, faceless bureaucracies, are prone to make themselves look disagreeable to others, but the Soviet leadership displays a special talent in this regard.

In the current case, as in others, Moscow hurt its own image and that of Moscow-brand communism in the bargain. Each time it does this sort of thing the Kremlin indicates by its reaction to world uproar that it doesn't relish the heat. But it seems unable to stay out of the kitchen.

This was the case again in the sentencing of two Jews to death and the imposition of labor camp sentences on seven other Jews and two Gentiles on charges of planning to seize an airliner. It is clear to the rest of the world that there would be no such case if the Soviet Union did not keep people within its borders against their wills.

An old Stalinist rule says neitheir Jews nor anybody else can leave the Soviet Union at will. The same rule book calls for the harshest of punishment for a citizen who publicly exhibits a dislike for the system.

Coming so soon after Soviet strangulation of an infant independence movement in Czechoslovakia and amid the current campaign to suffocate any trace of intellectual dissent in the Soviet Union, the Leningrad case must be a grievous embarrassment for Moscow-line Communists elsewhere.

It was ever thus with Moscow's clients, who have had to flip and flop and wriggle with each Kremlin bombshell. To mention only some major ones:

Stalin's cruel collectivization of farmers and incredible blood purges of the 1930s generated world horror, as did Stalin's 1939 deal with Hitler to rape Poland, his war on Finland and his annexation of the Baltic nations.

Moscow provoked world anger after the war by using Soviet guns to install Communists in power in Eastern Europe. Stalin jolted Communists by excommunicating Tito of Yugoslavia as a heretic. By that action Moscow invented the stir of Titoism and set the stage for yet another blood purge.

And what happened after the terrifying dictator died? It wasn't much different. East Germans in 1953 battled with bricks and bare fists against Soviet tanks. Poles rioted against Communist rule. Hungary exploded into revolution and the way the Soviet military dealt with that gave Moscow and communism more black eyes.

There was more to come: the attempt to make huge China to the Soviet line, the attempt to install offensive missiles in Cuba, the sudden overthrow of Nikita S. Khrushchev which left Western Communists gasping with shock, and now the signs of a renaissance of Stalinism in such things as persecution and imprisonment of writers, evidences of official anti-Semitism and the tight rein on Communist-ruled nations.

However, time has shown that outcries fade and are eventually all but forgotten. The Kremlin has survived many. Whatever the fate of the Leningrad 11, harsh treatment of offenders continues to serve a purpose when the Kremlin has a message to get across.

New OEO Chief Tells Solons VISTA Program Is Safe

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's nominee to head the Office of Economic Opportunity has assured senators the administration has no plans to dismantle the domestic version of the Peace Corps.

"Reports in the press to zero funding of the VISTA program are inaccurate," Frank C. Carlucci told the Senate poverty subcommittee Wednesday of volunteers in service to America.

His nomination ran into a major roadblock from Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., because Carlucci refused to say whether he would override a veto by Gov. Ronald Reagan of a $1.8 million funding grant for a controversial California legal services program.

Cranston criticized Carlucci's statement that he would grant a 30-day extension to the California Rural Legal Services program while he studied charges made by Reagan last week.

Reagan's office said a temporary continuation would be acceptable.

Carlucci said he could not decide immediately to override veto of the 1971 funding grant for the OEO program because he only received Reagan's letter Tuesday.

Cranston said he would prevent a full Senate committee confirming Carlucci's nomination because "I cannot accept the premise he cannot make a decision early next week."

Carlucci is now acting OEO director.

On VISTA, Carlucci said funds would be cut at the same level of other OEO programs, should the agency not receive all the money it requests for fiscal year 1972.

"I can assure you that there will be a VISTA program," he said "and if there are cuts, VISTA will not be cut disproportionately."

Franco Move Eases Tension Across Spain

6 Basques Saved From Execution By Generalissimo

MADRID (AP) — Spaniards turned their attention today to ringing in the New Year after Generalissimo Francisco Franco spared six Basque nationalists from execution.

Commutation of the death sentences Wednesday night sent Basques in northern Spain into the streets dancing and relaxed the tension that had gripped the country for weeks. Pope Paul VI, the Archbishop of Canterbury and other foreign leaders expressed appreciation for Franco's clemency.

The six Basques were sentenced to death Monday in Burgos by a military court which convicted them of the murder of a chief of the political police. Three of them received double death sentences.

Franco, faced with the gravest political crisis of his 31-year rule and under heavy pressure from abroad, reduced the sentences to 30 years each in prison, to be served in addition to prison sentences ranging from 27½ to 60 years given five of them by the military court.

There was no clemency for nine other Basques in the Burgos trial who got prison terms of 12 to 70 years for terrorist activity. But it was believed one of the 15 would serve more than 30 years since 30 years and a day is considered fulfillment of a life sentence in Spain. The oldest of the defendants is 37.

WASHINGTON (AP) — An old Congress is about to wearily welcome a New Year, still waging the battles of 1970 on the eve of 1971.

Senate-House negotiators were making another attempt to settle the stalemate over subsidies for the supersonic transport airplane.

And there was a cross-Capitol dispute over the fate of a bill to increase Social Security benefits.

But the stack of legislation confronting the waning Congress was dwindling.

"I wish I could give more encouraging news on the SST, which may well be the final roadblock to adjournment," said Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield.

Sen. Hugh Scott, the Republican leader, said he hopes the 91st Congress will call it quits by tonight.

But the odds appeared to be against it.

Mansfield said he expects a Senate session Saturday—just a day before the time the Constitution sets for expiration of the current Congress.

Another potential complication: the possibility President Nixon might choose to pocket veto legislation sent to the White House on Dec. 22.

A pocket veto kills a bill if the president does not sign it within 10 days after receiving it—if Congress is not in session when that time expires.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said Nixon has 22 unsigned bills, some of which could die by pocket veto if Congress is in adjournment Saturday.

The House passed Wednesday night and sent to the Senate a compromise three-year extension of the food stamp program which subsidizes grocery purchases of the poor, sticking by a disputed requirement that recipients accept almost any job offered.

The bill authorizes $1.75 billion for the food stamp program during the current fiscal year.

The compromise terms had loomed as a potential barrier to adjournment, but Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., said he had decided against trying to defeat them because there isn't time to draft a new version.

Nonetheless, McGovern described the work rule as serendipitous, saying it would cut off food stamps to mothers and children if a father, even an older brother or sister, refused a job.

The Senate passed 40 to 35 and sent to the House a bill that could give nearly 4 million federal employees, in and out of uniform, a pay raise of about 6 percent, effective Jan. 1. That would cost the government some $2 billion.

The measure gives the president authority to increase pay of federal workers to keep pace with salaries in private employment.

In the Senate, Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Finance Committee, appealed to the House to make an attempt at fashioning a compromise Social Security increase bill before Congress quits.

The Senate passed Tuesday a $6.5-billion increase in Social Security.

15-Year Term In Labor Camp Given To Pair

MOSCOW (AP) — The Supreme Court of the Russian Republic today commuted the death sentences of the two Jews convicted of treason on Christmas Eve in the Leningrad hijack case.

The court reduced the sentences of Edward Kuznetsov, 43, to 15-year terms in a labor camp.

It also reduced the labor camp terms given in Leningrad to three other defendants but upheld the other six sentences.

The trial and sentencing of the Jews set off a storm of protests in Western Europe, Israel and the United States, and a number of foreign governments and leaders appealed to the Soviet government for clemency.

The appeal court reversed the death sentences less than 24 hours after Generalissimo Francisco Franco, the Spanish chief of state, commuted the death sentences of six Basque nationalists, and Russians sympathetic to the Leningrad defendant said the Russian court undoubtedly was influenced by Franco's action.

The 11 defendants—nine Jews and two Gentiles—were arrested in June as they prepared to board a small Soviet airliner in Leningrad for Finland. At the trial which began Dec. 15 and ended Christmas Eve, the Jews admitted planning to hijack the plane because the Soviet government refused to let them emigrate to Israel. They were charged with treason.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., a chief promoter of the SST measure, said he sees a 50-50 chance of compromise to settle that issue today.

The senate originally voted to stop spending for the SST; the House voted $290 million for the project, and a compromise bill offering $210 million produced a filibuster in the Senate.

It was rejected in favor of new negotiations, which began Wednesday night. The conference was informal, since the House has not yet gone through the process of naming its conferees again.

Proxmire Says Military Bid System Flaws Bared By C5

WASHINGTON (AP) — A leading Senate critic of Pentagon spending policy says a new effort to resolve the complex case of Lockheed's costly C5 transport plane represents the collapse of the military contract system.

"Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard has the dubious distinction of being the first to one of the strangest offspring yet to be seen in the military-industrial complex — the loss-plus contract," Sen. William Proxmire said Wednesday after hearing of the Pentagon proposal.

The Wisconsin Democrat, whose subcommittee originally put the spotlight on the financial woes surrounding the giant craft, said the "only justification I can see for changing the terms of the contract and letting Lockheed off the hook on the C5 as well as the other contracts in dispute is the determination that the military contract system has completely collapsed.

Covering a series of major projects with Lockheed the prime one being C5 Government payments over original obligations apparently would exceed $1 billion.

As for alternatives, Packard said the Pentagon prefers to provide Lockheed Aircraft Corp. with a fixed $200-million loss on the C5. Under another proposed settlement in the legal dispute over the contract, he calculated the firm's losses might be pushed as high as $480 million.

In presenting Pentagon recommendations in an eight-page letter to chairmen of key Capitol Hill committees, Packard said the goal is — if possible — to avoid bankruptcy for the firm which is the nation's biggest defense contractor.

At Burbank, Calif., a Lockheed statement said the Pentagon offer, "proposing methods of resolving the contractual disputes," had been received, would be studied, and a response would be made as early as possible.

A Pentagon spokesman said Lockheed was told the Defense Department hopes to wind up the matter by the end of January.

Say Hughes No Longer Likes Nevada

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Has all that publicity soured Howard Hughes on Nevada?

Probably, says Gov. Paul Laxalt, who doubts that the privacy-loving billionaire will ever be seen in these parts again.

Laxalt, leaving the statehouse today after four years in office, put it this way:

"The only times in the past Hughes has pulled out of a place was when he felt his privacy was invaded."

Other top state officials also predict Hughes never will return.

Laxalt, who flew to Las Vegas earlier this month and observed the much-publicized struggle for control of Hughes $300 million Nevada empire, said Hughes still is vacationing in the Bahamas.

"I tried to reach him Christmas Eve to wish him a happy birthday," the governor said in an interview Wednesday. "But all the circuits were busy and I couldn't get a line."

Hughes left his tightly guarded penthouse suite at the Desert Inn, one of his six Nevada hotels, on Thanksgiving Eve. It was four years to the day after his mysterious pre-dawn arrival in Las Vegas, reportedly on a stretcher after a train trip from Boston, where he had received medical treatment.

The sessions will be held at the 4-H and Grange building beginning at 9 a.m. and ending at 4 p.m. The day will be spent in discussions, instruction, dancing and singing. Members of the grange will bring non-Grangers with them for the days events.

In addition to the local officers, Ohio State Youth Directors, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jones; past national youth chairman and Mrs. Wih Just; the 1970 National Grange Princess Patty Sherman; the 1969 Ohio State Grange Princess Joyce Kerns and other state officers will be present to help with the meeting.

Interested persons may attend any or all of the meeting. For additional information contact Paul Dunkle, 474-2459.

"In considering their appeals," the Soviet news agency Tass reported, "the Supreme Court proceeded from the fact that the hijack attempt was averted in time and that under the Soviet law the death penalty is an exceptional measure of punishment."

The court acted after a hearing that lasted a day and a half. Barred from the courtroom, supporters of the defendants stood outside the building in the rain and snow as the arguments went on inside.

Kuznetsov, who had a pistol when he was arrested, was ordered confined under "especially strict regime," meaning he will be allowed only one visitor a year, a subsistence diet of about one third the number of calories required to sustain good health, and no food parcels from outside.

Dymshits, who was to have flown the plane, was sentenced to "strict regime" confinement, meaning reduced visiting and mail privileges and fewer food parcels than ordinary inmates.

Fr ends of the defendants said Kuznetsov's confinement would be "like a slow death" because of the poor diet and prolonged isolation. But "it's better than a fast death," one said.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said he might be willing to hold conferences with the Senate on the Social Security measure—but "not with any hope we can work it out."

The Senate also:

—Approved a $125-million program of loan guarantees, designed to rescue the financially troubled Penn Central Railroad.

—Passed and sent to the White House an $18.9-billion appropriation for federal health, welfare and labor programs.

Proxmire Says Military Bid System Flaws Bared By C5

WASHINGTON (AP) — A leading Senate critic of Pentagon spending policy says a new effort to resolve the complex case of Lockheed's costly C5 transport plane represents the collapse of the military contract system.

Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard has the dubious distinction of being the first to be seen in the military-industrial complex — the loss-plus contract, Sen. William Proxmire said Wednesday after hearing of the Pentagon proposal.

The Wisconsin Democrat, whose subcommittee originally put the spotlight on the financial woes surrounding the giant craft, said the "only justification" he can see for changing the terms of the contract and letting Lockheed off the hook on the C5 as well as the other contracts in dispute is the determination that the military contract system has completely collapsed.

Covering a series of major

Say Hughes No Longer Likes Nevada

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Has all that publicity soured Howard Hughes on Nevada?

Probably, says Gov. Paul Laxalt, who doubts that the privacy-loving billionaire will ever be seen in these parts again.

Laxalt, leaving the statehouse today after four years in office, put it this way:

"The only times in the past Hughes has pulled out of a place was when he felt his privacy was invaded."

Other top state officials also predict Hughes never will return.

Laxalt, who flew to Las Vegas earlier this month and observed the much-publicized struggle for control of Hughes' $300 million Nevada empire, said Hughes still is vacationing in the Bahamas.

"I tried to reach him Christmas Eve to wish him a happy birthday," the governor said in an interview Wednesday. "But all the circuits were busy and I couldn't get a line."

Hughes left his tightly guarded penthouse suite at the Desert Inn, one of his six Nevada hotels, on Thanksgiving Eve. It was four years to the day after his mysterious pre-dawn arrival in Las Vegas, reportedly on a stretcher after a train trip from Boston, where he had received medical treatment.

The sessions will be held at the 4-H and Grange building beginning at 9 a.m. and ending at 4 p.m. The day will be spent in discussions, instruction, dancing and singing. Members of the grange will bring non-Grangers with them for the day events.

In addition to the local officers, Ohio State Youth Directors, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jones; past national youth chairman and Mrs. W. B. Just; the 1970 National Grange Princess Patty Sherman; the 1969 Ohio State Grange Princess Joyce Kerns and other state officers will be present to help with the meeting.

Interested persons may attend any or all of the meeting. For additional information contact Paul Dunkle, 474-2459.

15-Year Term

"In considering their appeals," the Soviet news agency Tass reported, "the Supreme Court proceeded from the fact that the hijack attempt was averted in time and that under the Soviet law the death penalty is an exceptional measure of punishment."

The court acted after a hearing that lasted a day and a half. Barred from the courtroom, supporters of the defendants stood outside the building in the rain and snow as the arguments went on inside.

Kuznetsov, who had a pistol when he was arrested, was ordered confined under "especially strict regime," meaning he will be allowed only one visitor a year, a subsistence diet of about one third the number of calories required to sustain good health, and no food parcels from outside.

Dymshits, who was to have flown the plane, was sentenced to "strict regime" confinement, meaning reduced visiting and mail privileges and fewer food parcels than ordinary inmates.

Friends of the defendants said Kuznetsov's confinement would be "like a slow death" because of the poor diet and prolonged isolation. But "it's better than a fast death," one said.

Highlights Of 1970 Business Year Listed

NEW YORK (AP) — Here are the business highlights of 1970—a year in which business was caught in a critical squeeze between lagging demand and sharply increasing costs.

In January, the government announced a cut in key space programs, for the 1971 fiscal year, raising the prospect of a layoff of 25 per cent of the employees involved in space work in the public and private sectors.

The space cutback combined with a decline in defense spending threatened the stability of leading aerospace contractors. One of them, Boeing, was forced to slash its Seattle work force to a level which caused a 10 per cent unemployment rate there.

General Electric and striking unions reached a settlement which provided for wage increases over a 40 month period averaging 80 cents an hour above the old rate of $3.25 an hour.

The first reduction in the prime lending rate in more than 18 months occurred in March when this key rate was cut to 8 from 8½ per cent. The prime rate is the interest banks charge to their most creditworthy corporate borrowers.

The stock market, in its 18th month of decline, hammered down the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks on May 26 to 631.16, the lowest point for the blue-chip indicator in more than seven years. A record breaking rally sent the Dow above 700 three sessions later. The protracted decline in prices and shrinking volume hurt many brokerage houses financially.

Plagued with a severe cash squeeze, Penn Central, Transportation Co., the nation's largest railroad, entered bankruptcy reorganization proceedings in June.

Expiration on June 30 of the income tax surcharge, pared to 5 per cent last January, added $2 billion to individuals' purchasing power over the next six months.

A settlement of the 12-week Chicago trucking strike, resulted in an increase in the national Teamster contract, which reportedly cost the trucking industry an extra $800 million.

The Nixon administration, issuing its first "inflation alert" in August, mildly criticized what it said was inflationary price increases in the tire, tobacco and electrical power fields.

Two cuts apiece were made in November in the prime rate and the discount rate, the interest charged by the Federal Reserve to commercial member banks. The latest round of reductions brought the prime rate to 7 per cent and the discount rate to 5½ per cent.

An eight-week strike against General Motors Corp. by the United Automobile Workers union in November ended with fat-test auto labor package in history, a 30 per cent wage increase over three years.

The House of Representatives passed a trade bill, similar to one tentatively approved by a Senate committee, that would impose import quotas on textiles and shoes and would preserve oil import restrictions.

The second "inflationary alert," couched in more sharply critical language than the first, singled out General Motors and the UAW among others for contributing to inflationary pressures.

In a move designed to increase oil production and reduce oil prices, the Nixon administration shifted control of oil input on the Gulf of Mexico's outer continental shelf from the state level to the federal government.

Stetson Hat Co. Reaches End Of Line

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The makers of Stetson hats, hall-mark of the Western male for a century, have decided to give up manufacture of the famous headgear.

"We have reached this conclusion with great reluctance," Norman Karpf, executive vice president of the John B. Stetson Co., said Tuesday.

Karpf cited "the severe decline in the use of hats," which he said had made it economically unfeasible to continue production at the Philadelphia plant.

The Stetson was originated by John B. Stetson, a Philadelphia hatmaker who popularized it during a trip to the West in the 1860s to cure a case of tuberculosis.

At one time 5,000 people turned out Stetsons at the plant here. Only 300 are on the payroll now.

The popularity of hatlessness after World War II cut into sales sharply. Another factor was the low-slung modern car, which made it difficult to wear a hat.

Congress Completes Action On Southeast Asian Curbs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Capping a year-long effort, Congress has completed passage of a three-part package limiting, with White House approval, U.S. activities in Southeast Asia.

The final step came Tuesday night when the Senate passed 70 to 2 the $66.6 billion defense appropriation bill. The measure bars U.S. combat ground forces from Laos and Thailand, but permits continued American support of South Vietnamese efforts in Cambodia and Laos.

The House passed the bill earlier in the day 234 to 18, and President Nixon is expected to sign it later in the week.

Together with two other bills—the $19.9 billion military procurement authorization bill and a supplementary foreign aid measure containing $255 million for Cambodia—the action eliminated one major area that had threatened to delay adjournment of the 91st Congress.

Senate war critics held up a previous version of the defense spending bill because of a loop hole in the ban on U.S. combat ground troops.

They permitted action on the defense appropriation legislation after receiving assurances it would not authorize a South Vietnamese invasion of North Vietnam to free U.S. prisoners.

The three sections of the final package include:

—The ban on U.S. combat ground troops in Laos and Thailand, first passed in last year's defense money bill, renewed in the present legislation.

—A comprehensive provision restricting U.S. activities in Cambodia, including a ban on ground combat troops and military advisers, a statement that U.S. aid does not mean a U.S. commitment to defend Cambodia, and a requirement for advance notice to Congress of future aid transfers to Cambodia.

This was passed in the aid bill authorizing the $255 million for Cambodia.

—Limitations of U.S. assistance to Vietnamese and other nations such as Thailand and Korea, prohibiting funds to them to provide military support and assistance to the governments of Laos and Cambodia.

Ford and General Motors answered the mounting competition from foreign carmakers with subcompact models introduced in September.

Financially hard-pressed Lockheed Aircraft Corp. got a break when its banks agreed to advance the $30 million left in the company's $400-million line of credit and also gave the defense contractor a new line of borrowing of up to $600 million, pending settlement of the corporation's claims against the Pentagon.

A cut in the prime rate in September brought that key interest rate to 7½ per cent from 8 per cent.

Real growth in the gross national product of 1.4 per cent in the third quarter, the first substantial advance of the GNP in four quarters, failed to stem a rising tide of unemployment. The level of unemployment in November rose to 5.8 per cent of the work force, the highest rate

Dream On, Says Amos

The dream of finding a lost gold mine, in one form or another, is a common human trait. How much easier life would be if a bonanza, or an unexpected inheritance or some other lucky windfall suddenly appeared.

Such things do happen occasionally, but for most the idea never stretches beyond the dream stage. One of the most famous dreams of all is Arizona's Lost Dutchman gold mine.

How many prospectors, amateur and professional alike, have spent their time — and in a few cases, small fortunes — looking for the lost mine which legend has it disappeared into folklore when its discoverer was killed by Indians?

But still they come to the wilds of Arizona to look, and to claim occasionally they are on to something. The latest claimants are a group of Florida men who say they have researched the legend for 13 years and have found ore with extremely high gold content.

Amos Hawkins, a veteran prospector who has spent 52 of his 64 years scouring the area, doesn't believe a word of it. Rekindling the hopes of all the rest of the dreamers, Hawkins said, "I'll tell you about the Lost Dutchman — it's pretty well lost."

It is just as well. If the mine were ever found, a lot more dreamers would be sad than happy.

NEW YORK (AP) — As the old year wanes and the new year looms, now is as good a time as any to take mental stock of yourself.

Well, here's an easy way to find out how normal you are. Simply ask yourself the following questions:

Do you sometimes have an impulse to put your head under water and keep it there just to drown out the noises of this world?

Would you conscientiously return a dime to someone who overpaid you that amount in making change? Would you do the same thing if the sum was a million dollars?

Naturally, your own merit has gone largely unrecognized, but if you had the chance would you like to change places with your boss—that is, you would have his income but would also have to go home to his wife?

Do you feel criminals should be punished because they are guilty of a wrongdoing, or because the only reason they let themselves be caught at all is because they have an inner compulsion to pay a penalty?

If asked how many faucets there are on a milk cow, would you make an udder error?

When a man next to you in church falls asleep, do you brusquely kick his ankle to wake him up, or do you surreptitiously waylay him later and kindly give him a synopsis of the sermon he missed?

Is there anything you'd rather do than inherit money? Give three reasons why.

If money isn't everything to you, is sex everything to you that money isn't? Give four reasons why.

When you meet a liberated woman do you wish to rush up and praise her for gaining her freedom, or do you have to suppress a desire to chain her to a fire hydrant and throw spitballs at her?

If you saw Lady Godiva riding by on a white horse, would the first thing you started conjecturing about was how long it had been since you saw a white horse?

Can you tell what time it is by rubbing two sticks together furiously in a driving rain? Well, well, well—really?

How far does snow have to be driven before it becomes as white as driven snow?

If you had it all to do over again, what is the first thing you'd shirk doing all over again?

Those are the questions. Now what about your score?

Well, if you took the questions as seriously as the man who composed them, you're about as normal as he is.

UPPER MONTCLAIR, N.J. (AP) — Co-ops are sprouting in cities and suburbs as housewives close ranks in the battle against food price inflation.

"I can pretty safely guarantee a family of four a saving of $1,000 a year. But even more important, the eating's a lot better," insists Vivian Crandell of the Downtown Coop of New York City.

"You save 20 per cent right off the bat by beating the markup at the supermarket. You save an additional 20 per cent because the quality is so much better," says Mrs. Crandell.

Marcia Schachter, co-founder of a coop of 15 families in an upper middle class neighborhood of this metropolitan suburb contends that quality is the major dividend.

"Our families eat more fresh fruit and vegetables. We eat more fish. The bread we buy from a wholesale routeman is whole wheat. It has no preservatives."

Each Tuesday members of the co-operative take turns driving a station wagon to a wholesale market in Newark, N.J., load up with supplies for the week. Returning home, a mini-market is set up in a garage where housewives pick and choose.

For two hours on shopping day the garage is a busy place as members—many with children in tow—stock up on food supplies for the week. Purchases here are on an honor system. Current prices are listed on each item.

"We work strictly on a cash basis," said Mrs. Schachter. "If food is left over we divide it among those who might need a particular item most."

At the Newark market, Ben Smolenski takes special care of his coop customers.

"A good buy on mushrooms. Twenty cents a pound less than in the supermarket," he'll say during Christmas or Thanksgiving week. "The pears are a bit expensive. Wait until next week."

A typical week may find a coop buying 24 heads of lettuce for $4.50 and selling them to members for 19 cents a head. Apples were real bargains at Ben's during Thanksgiving week, 8 cents a pound.

"That's 19 cents less than supermarket prices," beamed Mrs. Schachter. "Very good MacIntosh apples."

Operating procedures vary among co-ops.

Meat was dropped from the shopping program here because prices weren't attractive enough. But the Downtown Coop operating out of a first-floor apartment on New York's West 15th Street has an arrangement with a meat supplier for hotels and restaurants.

"Meat has to be delivered 24 hours in advance," says Mrs. Candell. "A woman from the coop is designated meat buyer for the week. She'll check by phone to see what the supplier's special will be for the week. On Sunday evening we'll phone her our orders. She'll then decide whether to take advantage of the bargain cut or pick an alternative that costs a little more. We don't go higher than $1.10 a pound for any meat. We're basically a middle class coop."

As in the garage in Upper Montclair, the housewives gather at the distributor's apartment where the buyers make their choices. The business of bookkeeping and handling the meat order is passed around, but each person participates in some phase of the business on a rotational basis.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Whenever I sneeze or cough too hard, droplets of urine empty from my bladder. It causes me a great deal of embarrassment, besides being uncomfortable.

You're Telling Me

By William Ritt
Central Press Writer

Mrs. G.F. Tenn, Dear Mrs. F.: Your complaint is a frequent one, and is especially common in women who have had a number of children.

In most instances, this inability to control the loss of urine is due to weaknesses of the muscles that surround the bladder and the vaginal wall.

I am certain that you have not discussed this problem with your own doctor. Had you done so, you would have learned that there are several surgical procedures that can safely and effectively control this unpleasant condition.

Examination by a urologist, a specialist in urinary problems, or a gynecologist will immediately pinpoint the exact cause. When this is found, treatment can be instituted with gratifying results.

What is responsible for the excess tears that constantly flow from the eyes of an infant? Mrs. T.H., N. Dak.

Dear Mrs. H.: This condition is not limited to newborn children. It may occur at any age.

Tears are produced by a gland and are, of course, a remarkable way to lubricate and protect the eyeball.

Normally, excess tears escape from the lower lid through a tiny tube that leads into the nose. This is why anyone who cries must also blow his nose. The tiny tube is known as the "nasolachrymal duct." Sometimes a newborn infant may have a narrowing of this duct which prevents the free flow of tears from the eyes to the nose.

In most instances, as the child grows older, the duct enlarges, and the excess flow stops of its own accord.

If it persists, the eye specialist can enlarge this duct with special probes. Obstruction to this duct is not uncommon in adults with prolonged disease of the sinuses.

There are now excellent operations by which the blocked nasolachrymal duct can be bypassed and an actual new channel can be created. Of course, this is done only in several cases.

Return To The 50's

By JEFFERY HART

The other morning as I was strolling across the snow-blanketed Dartmouth campus, I happened to overhear two students who were walking just behind me. "I just got a terrific record," one of them said. "Frank Sinatra. 'All Or Nothing At All.'"

The other fellow replied: "Sinatra was really great. I'll be over to hear it."

Sinatra! And where are the Rolling Stones and the Yellow Submarines of yesteryear?

Actually, the campus atmosphere this semester has been unexpectedly reminiscent of the Fifties. I half expect to hear that Vaughn Monroe will be singing at spring house parties. The whole mood may be a passing thing, but it is present nevertheless. The students in my literature classes have been absorbed in the poems and the novels and have been discussing them with continuous interest. Last year all anyone seemed to care about were Panthers, Chavez, Cambodi and what not. Though it seems impossible, nevertheless it is true, that even as we in the 1950's argued one critical approach against another, Eliot vs. Trilling and so on, so such theoretical controversies have gone on heatedly this year.

I myself gave a seminar in Eliot and Frost, two very conservative poets in their way and not only did each poet have his passionate supporters but most of the students viewed Eliot's difficult but deeply traditional Christianity as a genuine intellectual and emotional possibility.

The 1950's have had a terrible press lately. Supposedly we were all inert then, leading private lives, thoroughly apolitical. The truth is that the intellectual life of the 50's, the characteristic books, for example — the literary criticism of Trilling, Leavis, Brooks and Blackmur, the political writing of Neibuhr, the sociology of Parsons, the historical writing of Butterfield and Namier — possessed a seriousness and intellectual bite almost completely lacking in the feverish tracts we have lately been deluged with.

Students in the 1950's had a vivid sense of the limits of political action and an appreciation of how much lay beyond anything that politics could accomplish. We never thought that Castro or Ho Chi Minh or Che Guevara held out the promise of a golden age or a transformation of the human condition.

It would have seemed to us incredible that any student might desire to spend vast amounts of time arguing about how the Dean's office ought to be run, or in demanding a place on a college administrative committee to play a role in some absurd charade of "participatory democracy."

College administration, we thought and thought correctly was a workaday and philistine affair, largely a matter of boring routine and the less said about it, the less expected of it, the better. Eliot, Faulkner, Hemingway, Mann, Proust, Stevens — those were the things that mattered, those were the things that education was about. Those were the things that administrators and buildings and so forth were supposed to serve. Those were the things that mattered, those and the anticipated letters from Smith and Wellesley and such places.

I cannot believe that the sloganeering and hysteria of the 1960's, the drugs and the radical kiddiecut and all the rest of it, represented any great civilization advance. If we can get rid of the bosh and recover some of the seriousness and balance of the 1950's I for one will celebrate.

Love Story

By GENE HANDSAKER
AP Television-Movie Writer

Associated Press Writer One snowflake may not win a winter make, nor one film a trend ... unless, perhaps, its "Love Story."

Its critics' reviews and early box-office returns suggest a start of the pendulum's swing back to romanticism from blatant sex on the screen.

Or as Jack Valenti president of the Motion Picture Association of America, put it recently in a speech to a Sacramento, Calif., business group:

"My judgment is the exploitation film, mostly imported from abroad or made cheaply and quickly in this country is fading ... What I think will become the majority of seriously made films in this country is the kind of movie I would call romantic or entertaining."

Critic Kathleen Carroll wrote in The New York Daily News that "Love Story" should bring joy to millions of moviegoers sickened by the overdose of sex and drugs in the movies.

"Unless we are all mad," Charles Champlin wrote in The Los Angeles Times, it "will be an enormous success and almost certainly the most influential movie of the year, heralding more to come."

Early viewers seemed to approve. Paramount Studio says the film broke house box-office records in the first four days of its world premiere booking at two New York theaters. "Love Story" has Ryan O'Neal, for five years in TV's "Peyton Place," as a hockey-playing Harvard law student in rollicking love with Ali MacGraw, a poor but spirited Radcliffe music student.

Their marriage survives his stern father's disapproval and disinheritance but is doomed by her illness. Audience sniffles are like those at tearjerkers of the '30s.

In a handsome production of Erich Segal's script, from which he later wrote his best-selling novel, skin exposure is minimal, and love-making is hardly more than hinted at.

The film's rating is GP, however—parental guidance suggested—presumably for the profanity Miss MacGraw uses some critics thought, to excess.

Some reviews were less enthusiastic. Gail Rock of Women's Wear Daily advised: "If you dig high school plays and 1957 fiction from the Saturday Evening Post, you'll love 'Love Story' ... Neither O'Neal nor Miss MacGraw is a very good actor."

Vincent Canby of The New York Times pronounced the picture "beautiful and romantic" and added: "The only really depressing thing about 'Love Story' is the thought of all the terrible imitations that will inevitably follow it."

Love Story

By GENE HANDSAKER

AP Television-Movie Writer

Associated Press Writer

One snowflake may not a winter make, nor one film a trend . . . unless, perhaps, its "Love Story."

Its critics' reviews and early box-office returns suggest a start of the pendulum's swing back to romanticism from blatant sex on the screen.

Or as Jack Valenti president of the Motion Picture Association of America, put it recently in a speech to a Sacramento, Calif., business group:

"My judgment is the exploitation film, mostly imported from abroad or made cheaply and quickly in this country is fading . . . What I think will become the majority of seriously made films in this country is the kind of movie I would call romantic or entertaining."

Critic Kathleen Carroll wrote in The New York Daily News that "Love Story" should bring joy to millions of moviegoers sickened by the overdose of sex and drugs in the movies.

"Unless we are all mad," Charles Champlin wrote in The Los Angeles Times, it "will be an enormous success and almost certainly the most influential movie of the year, heralding more to come."

Early viewers seemed to approve. Paramount Studio says the film broke house box-office records in the first four days of its world premiere booking at two New York theaters.

"Love Story" has Ryan O'Neal, for five years in TV's "Peyton Place," as a hockey-playing Harvard law student in rollicking love with Ali MacGraw, a poor but spirited Redcliffe music student.

Their marriage survives his stern father's disapproval and disimbarance but is doomed by her illness. Audience sniffles are like those at tearjerkers of the '30s.

In a handsome production of Erich Segal's script, from which he later wrote his best-selling novel, skin exposure is minimal and lovemaking is hardly more than hinted at.

The film's rating is GP, however—parental guidance suggested—presumably for the profanity Miss MacGraw uses, some critics thought, to excess.

Some reviews were less enthusiastic. Gail Rock of Women's Wear Daily advised: "If you dig high school plays and 1957 fiction from the Saturday Evening Post, you'll love 'Love Story' . . . Neither O'Neal nor Miss MacGraw is a very good actor."

Vincent Canby of The New York Times pronounced the picture "beautiful and romantic" and added: "The only really depressing thing about 'Love Story' is the thought of all the terrible imitations that will inevitably follow it."

HAWK SUCCEEDS HAWK—Flanked by flags, 69-year-old Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., sits at his desk in Washington and ponders his new post—succeeding the late L. Mendel Rivers as Armed Services Committee chairman. It's a matter of a hawk succeeding a hawk, because Hebert says he agrees with just about every policy the South Carolinian espoused . . . "Rivers' plans will be carried out as far as is possible."

Judge Voids Bidding Law

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Franklin County Common Pleas judge has ruled the state legislature gave the director of the Department of Natural Resources "too much discretion" in letting contracts on a best bid basis.

If the ruling stands, said Judge Henry L. Holden, the legislature will have to enact a new standard for bid letting by that department.

Holden, who issued the decision Monday in a taxpayer's suit against Natural Resources Director Fred E. Morr, said the law is a "divergence from custom."

Holden said he feels the legislature does not have the right to grant such authority and that the law is unconstitutional.

Holden emphasized his decision concerns a law written for the Department of Natural Resources and does not involve any other low bid law in the state.

His ruling came in a suit filed by a group of persons, including Mr. Brayton Trumble and Robert W. Cyster of Dayton, Arv'd E. Roll Jr., of Cambridge and Robert J. Perkins of Centerville. They sued in a dispute over contracts for operation of public service facilities in state parks.

Christian Home Circle 7 p.m. and Esther Circle 7:45 p.m. Ruth Circle will meet 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Arrest Girl In LSD Case

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — An 18-year-old suburban Cuyahoga Falls girl, Cheryl Ann Sim, was charged Tuesday with possession of an hallucinogen in the case of a 4-year-old girl who was hospitalized after swallowing an LSD tablet.

The girl was released to the custody of her mother pending her arraignment next Tuesday in Cuyahoga Falls Municipal Court.

City Law Director Norman Holt II said that additional charges might be filed against six or eight other youths believed involved in the incident.

The child, Linda Marie Faulhaber, was released Tuesday from Akron Children's Hospital. Police said the child had swallowed an LSD capsule after it was placed on a dining room table during a party at the child's apartment while she was being watched by a babysitter.

Police said two of the tablets had been put on the table near raisins which the child had been eating.

Hovey Believes Background Will Help In Job

By DAVID TOMLIN
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Harold A. Hovey believes his background has prepared him for his new job as director of the state finance department in every important respect but one.

He has almost no practical experience in administration, Hovey says this means he'll have much catching up to do in the realm of purchasing, of which the department does a great deal.

The finance department has a purchasing budget of something like 715 million Hovey says. Food, drugs, street lights, park benches . . . you name it."

Otherwise, Gov. - elect John J. Gilligan's new director of finance feels well prepared for the duties he'll assume when the Democratic administration takes over Jan. 11.

His principal task will be to assist the new governor in developing a budget for the state.

Hovey did similar work for the defense department, where he worked in the office of the director of military assistance, helping develop a $1.5 billion budget for military hardware and training.

He also did work as an analyst in the bureau of the budget.

Hovey got experience in planning and programming when he worked as a programs analyst for a private trade association to Washington and later as a researcher and division chief for Battelle Memorial Institute.

Right now, the new finance director is spending most of his time 'sitting and listening to (outgoing director) Howard Collier talking about how to be finance director."

Hovey says he has also begun studying Collier's $7 billion projected biennial budget, but doesn't know yet where he will make revisions.

He also says he doesn't know how he will go about solving the state's thorniest fiscal problems.

Nye, Garnes Posts Linked By Gilligan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. elect John J. Gilligan said it was no coincidence he announced two cabinet-level appointments at the same time Wednesday.

He appointed State Sen. William B. Nye of Akron to deal with natural resources as director of that department, and William E. Garnes of Cincinnati will deal with human resources as administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services.

"We hope in the days ahead to come up with a method of tying the two together," Gilligan told newsmen.

Both jobs pay $24,960 a year. The 37-year-old Nye, who must resign his Senate seat to take the appointment, said the natural resources department will be "very tough" on strip mining laws.

He added he believed all environmental agencies in state government should be under the same roof.

Garnes, 37, a United Auto Workers official and the first Negro Gilligan has named to a cabinet position, said his first task would be to study the operations of BES and see how it can be improved to help more people get jobs.

Nye, who has degrees from the University of Akron and the University of Michigan law school, served in the Ohio House from 1964-66, was elected to a two-year Senate term in 1966 and re-elected to a four-year term in 1968.

Garnes, currently an international representative of the UAW's Region Two, attended Florida A&M College and Ohio State University.

Americans Have Little Luck With Reds On POW Question

PARIS (AP) — More and more Americans are coming to Paris, trying to pressure North Vietnamese diplomats about American prisoners of war, but most don't get inside the door.

First it was wives of prisoners and missing fliers. Then some Virginians arrived with a sack full of letters pleading for information and better treatment of the POWs. Now the delegations bring petitions with thousands and thousands of signatures.

This week there's a delegation of Florida high school pupils who hope some day to be diplomats.

One delegation handed out little copper bracelets, each inscribed with a prisoner's name. The recipient was asked to wear the bracelet until the prisoner was released.

Nowadays almost no one gets any farther than the grilled front door of the North Vietnamese mission, a red brick building on a little street on the Left Bank.

One American offered to trade himself for his POW son and set up grade school courses in Hanoi. Another, a former prisoner himself said he wanted to go back to North Vietnam for a visit.

A husky ex-Marine from New York offered a deal under which Hanoi could trade prisoners for civilian hostages who would act as teachers. He got into a scuffle just inside the door of the North Vietnamese mission and authorities reported that "someone fell down the stairs." French police escorted him to the airport.

The North Vietnamese and their French staff are always polite on the telephone, the Americans say. But they almost never answer telegrams or registered letters.

Heavy Snow Hits Wide Area Of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A New Year's Eve storm dumped heavy snow from Southern Illinois to North Carolina today and aimed a holiday weekend punch toward the Northeast.

Forecasters warned of up to 4 inches or more of snow in sections of Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee and North Carolina. Travelers warnings extended in to the Southeast as far as northeastern Georgia and northwestern South Carolina.

The National Weather Service said heavy snow watches were anticipated as far north as New York and Massachusetts later today and tonight.

Rain, occasionally heavy, soaked areas south of the snow belt. A tornado watch was in effect in the predawn hours for portions of northern Florida and southern Georgia.

A cool front rolling across the Pacific Northwest brought warnings to travelers of locally heavy snow in mountain sections of the region. Rain splashed over coastal areas.

Temperatures moderated in much of the midcontinent after several days of arctic cold.

Readings before dawn ranged from -5 a Waterown, N.Y., to 73 at Key West, Fla.

Gilligan Gets Oath-Taking Limelight

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Other newly elected state officials apparently are willing to let incoming Gov. John J. Gilligan take the inaugural limelight Jan. 11.

Few appear to have given little more than a passing thought to the swearing-in ceremony.

The ceremony traditionally is arranged by the official - elect himself and usually is held on the morning of the gubernatorial inauguration. A justice of the Supreme Court and several witnesses are all that is needed.

In the case of incumbent Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, a casual attitude is understandable. This ceremony will be the veteran Republican's sixth.

"I really haven't had time to give it much thought," Brown said. "Wherever I can arrange for a justice and a captive audience, I'll get it over with."

Other officials, including those new to statewide office, were equally casual.

Atty. Gen. elect William J. Brown, 30, a Democrat and politician novice, still has not made firm plans to officially become the state's ranking legal authority.

Democrat Gertrude Donahey, the treasurer - elect, said she "just hadn't given any thought to it yet."

Aides to Lt. Gov. John W. Brown, a Republican incumbent, "guessed" he would be sworn in the same day as the governor-elect.

Rhodes Names 4 To Judgeships

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes, who leaves office in 11 days, announced Wednesday these judicial appointments:

—Hamilton County Prosecutor Melvin C. Rueger, 53, and Hamilton County Municipal Court Judge Robert S. Kraft, 42, to vacancies on the county common pleas court.

—Donald G. Montfort, 44, assistant Hamilton County prosecutor, to Kraft's municipal court seat.

—Bush P. Mitchell, 49, a Dayton lawyer, as judge of Dayton Municipal Court, succeeding Judge Arthur Fisher, who was elected to the Montgomery County Common Pleas Court bench.

Commission Paves Way For Silver Dollar Rush

WASHINGTON (AP) — A rider on a bank regulatory bill could spur a silver dollar rush by collectors for at least $90 million in uncirculated cart wheels.

About 2.8 million of these rare date coins left in U.S. vaults since they emerged from the Carson City, Nev., mint in the 19th Century—would be sold under a plan approved by the Coinage Commission in May 1969.

Now, as part of one-bank holding company legislation on

Britain Ends Old System Of Money

LONDON (AP) — Britain is abandoning its 1,200-year-old monetary system in seven weeks for one based on the decimal point, and the government began a $3 million propaganda campaign today to make D Day easier.

Advertisements coaxing the 5 million Britons to "meet our new money" appeared in all major newspapers. They showed pictures of the new penny, the basic coin of the new system.

The pound sterling will live on, and it will still be worth $2.40. But it will be made up of 100 newpence, each worth 2.4 cents, instead of 240 of the present pence. And the shilling, 20 of which have made up a pound, will vanish. Shillings and old pence will remain legal tender for 18 months, but the government hopes to have the conversion completed before then.

Nine newspaper ads before Feb. 15, the day for the changeover, will explain how to cipher costs, total bills and speak in newpence—one pound 50 newpence, for example, instead of one pound 10 shillings, or the colloquial 30 bob. They will show how to write amounts in two places—pounds and newpence—instead of three—pounds, shillings and pence.

Prime-time television commercials, magazine ads, posters in cities, towns and villages and free booklets to 20 million homes are also part of the "Think decimal" drive.

President Nixon's desk, Congress has authorized transfer of the silver dollars—some of them still in original mint bags—from the Treasury to the General Services Administration for auction. Proceeds from the public sale will go to the Treasury.

Officials at GSA, who never have handled this big a coin sale, are reluctant to say how much they expect to make on the deal—but they note these silver dollars, minted from 1878 to 1891, are conservatively valued by coin experts at more than $90 million.

GSA official Louis Brooks said the agency will set up a task force to settle on arrangements for the sale and seek $2 million to $3 million from Congress to pay for processing the anticipated flood of orders.

There will be a listing of the 10 years represented in the Carson City group—from 1878 to 1885 inclusive, plus 1890 and 1891—and a designated price for each. Buyers would be permitted to have just one coin from each year—with no one getting more than 10 coins.

If there are more requests for a specific year than there are coins to go around, the dollars will go to the highest bidder.

"These are 90 per cent silver and very valuable. The base prices will be set in advance by the government and will bear some reasonable relation to market values—but there will be a device under which people who order could, in effect, bid a higher price."

The measure also authorizes a new dollar coin bearing a likeness of the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower on one side—with the other side having a design emblematic of the symbolic eagle of Apollo 11 landing on the moon.

There would be 150 million dollars of 40 per cent silver—to be sold at a premium—with general circulation versions made of composition metal like the present quarter and dime.

No silver dollars have been minted since 1935. Circulation was stopped in 1964 because the remaining ones were worn much more than $1 as collectors items.

No Executions Seen For Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — There probably will not be another state execution in Ohio before the U.S. Supreme Court rules on the constitutionality of capital punishment, gubernatorial aide John McElroy said Wednesday.

At the same time, McElroy said, it is "very unlikely" outgoing Gov. James A. Rhodes would commute the sentences of 47 persons scheduled to die in the electric chair.

McElroy commented after Arkansas Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, defeated in his bid for reelection, commuted the sentences of 15 persons awaiting the death penalty.

Nine newspaper ads before Feb. 15, the day for the changeover, will explain how to cipher costs, total bills and speak in newpence—one pound 50 newpence, for example, instead of one pound 10 shillings, or the colloquial 30 bob. They will show how to write amounts in two places—pounds and newpence—instead of three—pounds, shillings and pence.

Prime-time television commercials, magazine ads, posters in cities, towns and villages and free booklets to 20 million homes are also part of the "Think decimal" drive.

President Nixon's desk, Congress has authorized transfer of the silver dollars—some of them still in original mint bags—from the Treasury to the General Services Administration for auction. Proceeds from the public sale will go to the Treasury.

Officials at GSA, who never have handled this big a coin sale, are reluctant to say how much they expect to make on the deal—but they note these silver dollars, minted from 1878 to 1891, are conservatively valued by coin experts at more than $90 million.

GSA official Louis Brooks said the agency will set up a task force to settle on arrangements for the sale and seek $2 million to $3 million from Congress to pay for processing the anticipated flood of orders.

There will be a listing of the 10 years represented in the Carson City group—from 1878 to 1885 inclusive, plus 1890 and 1891—and a designated price for each. Buyers would be permitted to have just one coin from each year—with no one getting more than 10 coins.

If there are more requests for a specific year than there are coins to go around, the dollars will go to the highest bidder.

"These are 90 per cent silver and very valuable. The base prices will be set in advance by the government and will bear some reasonable relation to market values—but there will be a device under which people who order could, in effect, bid a higher price."

The measure also authorizes a new dollar coin bearing a likeness of the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower on one side—with the other side having a design emblematic of the symbolic eagle of Apollo 11 landing on the moon.

There would be 150 million dollars of 40 per cent silver—to be sold at a premium—with general circulation versions made of composition metal like the present quarter and dime.

No silver dollars have been minted since 1935. Circulation was stopped in 1964 because the remaining ones were worn much more than $1 as collectors items.

No Executions Seen For Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — There probably will not be another state execution in Ohio before the U.S. Supreme Court rules on the constitutionality of capital punishment, gubernatorial aide John McElroy said Wednesday.

At the same time, McElroy said, it is "very unlikely" outgoing Gov. James A. Rhodes would commute the sentences of 17 persons scheduled to die in the electric chair.

McElroy commented after Arkansas Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, defeated in his bid for reelection, commuted the sentences of 15 persons awaiting the death penalty.

Careless Sellers

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Careless wig sellers are getting in the hair of the state board of hairdressers and cosmetologists. It has delivered notices around the state that store employees handling wigs will have to be licensed.

Because we realize that our success is due to you, we are especially pleased to greet you and wish you a most rewarding, happy New Year.

Regents Urge New College Plan For Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Board of Regents came up with another proposal for two-year university branch campuses and technical institutes today.

The newest proposal would let them operate as they do now but advocates some changes that may again draw opposition from university presidents.

A hearing on the proposal will be held by regents Jan. 14 at 2 p. m. Changes that would be made include:

— Technical institutes would become technical colleges.

— University branch campuses would be renamed general colleges or general and technical colleges, depending upon the courses offered.

— Legislation that would permit state general and technical colleges to become independent from four-year universities on voluntary basis.

Under the proposal, trustees of a technical college could seek approval from the regents to make it a state general and technical college.

Or the boards of trustees of a technical college and a university general college in the same area could take joint action to establish an independent general and technical college.

Under the proposal, there would be four community colleges as there are now, with the possibility of a fifth in the Miami-Shelby-Darke county area.

There would be 15 technical colleges, with the possibility of two more in Belmont and Washington counties; six university general and technical colleges under the auspices of Kent State University of Cincinnati and Miami.

The plan would provide for 14 university general colleges under Ohio State, Ohio University, Miami, Cincinnati, Wright State and Bowling Green.

The board, in its latest proposal, suggested that all academic centers be abolished by September, 1972. The centers, usually conducted in local high schools, offer college courses.

The board said no new two-year campuses should be established within 30 miles of each other unless there is a prospect of 1,000 students for each.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

'You Can't Say He Didn't Warn You'

DEAR ABBY: I have been dating an attractive widower for a year. He is in his early sixties. He takes me to nice places but on the very first date he told me not to get serious with him. He wants to date me steady, but he doesn't want any "involvements." He wants to play house with me but tells me that marriage is not in his plans. He even tells me that he is in love with me, but he isn't husband material. What does all this mean?

Should I give him up or just be satisfied to date him and hope he will change his mind?

NOT SO GAY DIVORCEE
DEAR NOT: He is trying to tell you that he doesn't want to marry you but if you waste your time "hoping," you can't say he didn't warn you.

DEAR ABBY: One of my husbands business acquaintances has made it a habit to come here once a week for drinks and a nice thick steak dinner. He is middle-aged, divorced, and a kind of happy-go-lucky fellow. After dinner he and my husband play pool in our rec room.

I don't want to be bothered with the man every week. My husband is the kind who can't say "no" to anyone, and I am sick of this man imposing on us.

How can I get rid of him without making my husband angry with me?

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR ABBY: My elderly mother, whom I love dearly, made her home with me for many years. Caring for her this past year has been a 24-hour-a-day job. She became senile and sick, lost control of her bodily functions, had to be fed and dressed and watched constantly. I am not complaining. She is my mother and I know she would have done the same for me and gladly. Two months ago, her doctor insisted that she be moved to a sanatorium because the equipment essential for treatment was there, plus other factors which made keeping her at home impossible.

Remarks that have come back to me have hurt me deeply. You would think I committed my mother to a lunatic asylum or "put her away" like a criminal.

Abby, the sanatorium is one of the best and one of the most expensive which puts a strain on me financially, but if I had to scrub floors to provide my mother with the best of care I would do it. Please print this. So many are quick to criticize when they don't know the facts.

"HURT" DAUGHTER
CONFIDENTIAL TO MANNY. You are lucky it was only a fur coat. Next time it may be your hide.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WORRIED" IN BRISTOL, CONN.. No one can "build up" an immunity to venereal disease. After treatment he can be reinfected again and again and again! I urge you to see a physician or go to your public health department. You will not be lectured. In your state, a doctor is authorized by law to test and treat minors without the consent of parents. Venereal disease is now the second most common communicable infection in the United States. (The common cold is first!)

I urge you to see a physician at once!

On Sunday they visited Mrs. Moore's mother, Mrs. Pearl Willis and Sunday evening entertained Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Spangler and children of Titusville, Fla.

9 Televised Grid Games On Tap In Next 4 Days

By BEN THOMAS
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The men around the house—if they're football fans—are going to be monopolizing the television for the next four days.

Nine football games—that's close to 30 hours—will be nationally televised between tonight and Sunday. Included on the television menu are Sunday's conference championship games in the National Football League.

There's only one real conflict. On New Year's Day—Friday—the affluent have to use their second television set at 2 p.m., EST, if they want to watch both the Sugar and Cotton bowls.

The Cotton Bowl, pitting top-ranked Texas against All-American quarterback Joe Theismann and Notre Dame's Fighting Irish, starts at 2 p.m. on CBS. An hour earlier the Sugar Bowl—with No. 4 Tennessee battling Air Force—begins on ABC.

The gridiron bonanza on the tube actually got under way Monday night with the Tangerine Bowl and Wednesday night the Peach Bowl provided the action.

Tonight's attraction is the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl from Houston on the Hughes Sports Network at 7:30 p.m., EST. Johnny Musso, called by Alabama Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant the greatest back he's ever coached, leads the Crimson Tide against Oklahoma.

But there's more, sooner. The collegiate bowl marathon continues tonight in Houston with Alabama's Crimson Tide taking on Oklahoma in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl.

There's no shortage of action on Saturday either, with the East-West Shrine Game in Oakland and the Gator Bowl, which pits Mississippi quarterback Archie Manning against Auburn quarterback Pat Sullivan in what shapes up as a wild air show.

Longhorns, Notre Dame In Collision

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A year ago Texas made official what a lot of people knew all along—that the Longhorns were the No. 1 college football team in the nation.

They're still there. But Notre Dame, also in the same place it was a year ago, will be aiming Friday for revenge for last New Year's Day 21-17 loss as the Irish send All-American quarterback Joe Theismann against Texas in the Cotton Bowl.

The game is but one of the four traditional New Year's attractions. No. 4 Tennessee will be trying to ground the Air Force in the Sugar Bowl, second-ranked Ohio State will face Stanford and Heisman Trophy winner Jim Plunkett in the oldest of the post-season classics, the Rose Bowl and, in a night game at the Orange Bowl, fifth-rated Louisiana State will be trying to cool off high-powered No. 3 Nebraska.

Arizona State Bowl Victor

ATLANTA (AP) — Arizona State's Sun Devils may be accustomed to run in the sun, but snow doesn't seem to slow them down.
"We've proven now we can play on a football field with anyone in the nation," said Sun Devil Coach Frank Kush after his unbeaten eighth-ranked team swamped North Carolina 48-26 in the snowbound Peach Bowl Wednesday night.
"The conditions weren't good but it didn't stop us."
"We had a mission and we accomplished it."

Arizona State's mission was to win its first bowl game in five tries and the Sun Devils overcame a 26-point second quarter by the Tar Heels to win going away. Arizona State piled up a 21-7 lead before North Carolina erupted for three touchdowns in the last five minutes of the second period for a 26-21 halftime edge.
The last half was all Arizona State, however, as the Tar Heels couldn't get untracked back.

9 Televised Grid Games On Tap In Next 4 Days

By BEN THOMAS
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The men around the house—if they're football fans—are going to be monopolizing the television for the next four days.

Nine football games—that's close to 30 hours—will be nationally televised between tonight and Sunday. Included on the television menu are Sunday's conference championship games in the National Football League.
There's only one real conflict. On New Year's Day—Friday—the affluent have to use their second television set at 2 p.m., EST, if they want to watch both the Sugar and Cotton bowls.

The Cotton Bowl, pitting top-ranked Texas against All-American quarterback Joe Theisman and Notre Dame's Fighting Irish, starts at 2 p.m. on CBS. An hour earlier the Sugar Bowl—with No. 4 Tennessee battling Air Force—begins on ABC.
The gridiron bonanza on the tube actually got under way Monday night with the Tangerine Bowl and Wednesday night the Peach Bowl provided the action.

Tonight's attraction is the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl from Houston on the Hughes Sports Network at 7:30 p.m., EST. Johnny Musso, called by Alabama Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant the greatest back he's ever coached, leads the Crimson Tide against Oklahoma.

The New Year's Day attractions, in addition to the Cotton Bowl and Sugar Bowl, are the Rose and Orange Bowls.

The Rose Bowl, oldest of the collegiate post-season classics, follows the Cotton on CBS and matches No. 2 Ohio State against Stanford and the Indians' Heisman Trophy-winning quarterback, Jim Plunkett.

The Orange Bowl, at 8 p.m., EST, on NBC wraps up the Jan. 1 football. The contestants: Nebraska, third-ranked and Big Eight Conference champion, vs. fifth-ranked Louisiana State, Conference title.

Saturday's viewing features the Gator Bowl and the East-West Shrine Game. The Gator Bowl, on NBC at 2:15 p.m., EST, sends Mississippi against Auburn and promises to be quite an aerial show. Auburn quarterback Pat Sullivan and his Ole Miss opposite, Archie Manning, each own impressive passing credentials.

The East-West game from Oakland gets under way at 4:30 p.m., EST, on ABC.

The professionals take over Sunday. It's the Oakland Raiders vs. the Baltimore Colts for the American Football Conference title on NBC at 2 p.m., EST, and the Dallas Cowboys vs. the San Francisco 49ers for the National Football Conference title at 5 p.m., EST, on CBS.

LSU Tops Cage Data

NEW YORK (AP) — When super-shooter Pete Maravich left Louisiana State it figured that the Bayou Bengals' scoring would suffer. And when 6-foot-11 Bob Lanier finished his career at St. Bonaventure, it figured that the Bonnies would suffer under the boards.

So how do you explain National Collegiate Sports Services statistics released today that show LSU leading the nation in field goal percentage and averaging 94.5 points per game? And how do you explain St. Bonaventure leading the nation in rebounds with 68.2 per game?

Well, LSU is getting sharp-eyed shooting from Al Sanders, Bill Newton and Nelson Sley all averaging better than 55 per cent of their shots. The Bengals' 94.5 average is No. 9 in the nation and 1.2 higher than the average of last year's team with Maravich.

The Bonnies, 8-0 so far, have captured 400 rebounds in six games even without Lanier under the boards.

Th leading individual scorer is Mississippi's Johnny Neumann, who is averaging 44.1 points per game while Jacksonville's 111.4 is the top team mark.

DEFENSE KEY IN ORANGE BOWL—It will be Louisiana State's defense against a potent Nebraska offense in the Orange Bowl Game the night of January 1 in Miami. The Cornhuskers of Nebraska (10-0-1) are led by quarterback Jerry Tagge, running back John Rodgers and star linebacker Jerry Murtaugh. Husker back Joe Orduna led the team in scoring with 14 TDs as Nebraska averaged 421 yards offense a game. The Tigers of LSU (9-2) feature All-American linebacker Mike Anderson, lineman John Sage and cornerbacks Jim Earley and Tom Casanova. LSU ranked ninth in the country in total defense. This is Nebraska's ninth Bowl appearance. The Huskers beat Georgia in the Sun Bowl last season. LSU has been in 15 Bowls.

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's examination of the world's wildlife continued Wednesday night on CBS with a report on an expedition to the Bering Sea to observe seals and walrus.

The hour, one in the "Adventure" series, trailed a team of scientists and divers headed by Dr. Carleton Ray, a zoologist who specializes in the study of marine animals. They were studying the mukluk, or bearded seal, and the smaller ringed seal, during the polar spring, particularly interested in learning how they survive beneath the heavy ice and raise their young in the frigid waters.

Some of the most interesting footage showed drivers with experimental gear working through small holes dug in the ice cover.

The expedition only spotted the wily seals from a distance, but the second portion of the program, devoted to the walrus, was more rewarding since they are generally peaceful and unafraid—"a weird affectionate beast," commented Ray. "It's difficult not to be tremendously anthropomorphic about them because you cannot get in the presence of a walrus without the thing trying to crawl into your lap."

The conservation emphasis of the program was, of course, strong. A recent census indicated about 100,000 Pacific walrus are in the vicinity of Alaska, hunted on both the Siberian and Alaskan waters for their ivory, skin and meat. It is estimated that slightly more of them are born than are destroyed.

Ray's big concern, he said, was the indirect elimination of the species.

"Here we're sitting on a shallow sea, full of minerals, full of oil... Suppose we had a gigantic oil spill everywhere here?"

You don't have to shoot an animal with a gun. Ruin its environment... you can kill him a lot more effectively."

The photography was excellent, and Charles Kuralt's succinct narration was helpful.

New Year's Day will be, as usual, a time of TV parades and football games. The parades start early, first with the Cotton Bowl activity on CBS, followed by the Rose Parade on CBS and NBC, with a little overlapping competition from ABC with its Sugar Bowl parade.

ABC's Sugar Bowl game starts earliest—12:55 EST. The Cotton Bowl on CBS begins less than an hour later with the Rose Bowl on NBC at 4:45. NBC will follow with the Orange Bowl at 8 p.m.

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's examination of the world's wildlife continued Wednesday night on CBS with a report on an expedition to the Bering Sea to observe seals and walrus.

The hour, one in the "Adventure" series, trailed a team of scientists and divers headed by Dr. Carleton Ray, a zoologist who specializes in the study of marine animals. They were studying the mukluk, or bearded seal, and the smaller ringed seal, during the polar spring, particularly interested in learning how they survive beneath the heavy ice and raise their young in the frigid waters.

Some of the most interesting footage showed drivers with experimental gear working through small holes dug in the ice cover.

The expedition only spotted the wily seals from a distance, but the second portion of the program, devoted to the walrus, was more rewarding since they are generally peaceful and unafraid—"a weird affectionate beast," commented Ray.
